This Conference is supported by and is taking place under the auspices of the Ministry of Health of the Republic of Kosova

Abstract submission Deadline: April 30th 2012

Authors are invited to submit presentations on empirical positive psychotherapy studies both quantitative and qualitative (i.e. case study, basic theory etc.), covering range of theoretical and practical problems, methodological issues, relations between positive psychotherapy and other sciences, post-conflict and trans cultural topics related to positive psychotherapy.

Subject matter:

Periods of transition in many west-east countries brought on many changes in everyday life, especially with regard social, psychological, economic and cultural aspects which affected the mental health of communities. The development of Positive Psychotherapy in countries in transition has its own challenges and difficulties in its attempt to reach sustainability and professionalism. The conference will therefore concern itself with various psychological aspects of stress and trauma, mental health, psychiatry, psychology and psychotherapy in transition, trans-cultural aspects in psychotherapy, positive psychotherapy in everyday life, conflicts and reconciliation in transition, spirituality and religion in psychotherapy, and psychosocial consequences of war trauma.
