What's hot at IFMAD Monaco

By Siegfried Kasper - Stuart A. Montgomery

This year a large number of key areas are addressed:

- Why pharmacological treatments are under attack
- Will the new data in bipolar depression shift the approach to treatment
- The increasing restrictions on prescribing in adolescents and elderly patients
- Debate with a member of the CHMP on whether the EU is too restrictive in licensing medications in the CNS.
- New data on treatment resistant depression
- Advances in PTSD will be challenged
- Implications of new data on the potential evolving role of the atypicals in anxiety and depression
